

The European Union Research Programme:

Opportunities for Georgian Researchers and Scientists in Horizon Europe

Online training course December 21, 16:00 – 18:30 (GEO)

Georgia has become an associated to the Horizon Europe Program, enabling Georgian researchers and institutions to participate in Horizon Europe¹.

This training program is provided by Jan Andersen and Dr. Seán McCarthy, for the purpose of sharing our knowledge and network. Understanding the obstacles and questions from an Associated Country perspective will enable other European institutions and researchers to better embrace and include colleagues from associated countries in research collaborations and projects.

This course is for research leaders, heads of groups or Departments and for research and research support staff, involved in the preparation of EU projects, and for colleagues working with dissemination and information about participating in EU research projects.

Program:
