

Involvement of Young People (bachelor, magistrates, doctoral and post-doctoral students) in the Exchange Programs

Since 2011 the Technical University is involved in the Erasmus Mundus program, which implies the mobility of bachelor, master, doctoral students, young researchers (post-doctoral students) and academic/administrative personnel in various higher education institutions of European countries.⁵ Erasmus Mundus projects were implemented through the direct involvement of the Georgian Technical University. (ALRAKIS, BACKIS, TEMPO, INFINITY, ACTIVE).

The new programs have been launched since 2015 by Horizon 2020 (previously existing FP7) and ERASMUS +, which combines individual programs such as Erasmus Mundus, Tempus ... Together with administrative and academic personnel GTU bachelor, master and doctoral students and young researchers and post-doctoral students participate in the above-mentioned exchange projects. They are able to spend a certain period in another country, get acquainted with different methods of teaching, learn different educational programs, improve linguistic, cultural and educational experiences that are very important for individual development, language skills and cultural diversity.
