Levan Bogveradze

From May 7 to May 14, in 2022, I visited Krakow University of Science and Technology (Poland) with the ERASMUS+ academic staff mobility program. During this period, I had meetings with professors from the University of Krakow. In addition, I had the opportunity to lead classes about types of construction tenders and tender processes.

During my visit to Krakow University of Science and Technology, I participated in the 2nd Erasmus International Staff Week workshop. Also, within the framework of the international conference, I have discussions with professors representing different countries about various issues and we agreed on future cooperation plans.

On May 22, 2022, I received a specific offer from a professor at the University of Krakow (Elena Neverova-Dziopak) to be a reviewer for her paper: "Evaluation of the impact of a metallurgical plant on the Sea of Azov", which I successfully completed on June 21, 2022.
