GTU professors Erasmus+ mobility at the Constantine Philosopher University in Nitra

On May 9-17, 2019, Professors of GTU Faculty of Informatics and Control Systems, Tamar Lominadze and Ia Mosashvili visited the Constantine Philosopher University in Nitra (Slovakia) within Erasmus+ mobility project for teaching activities coordinated by UKF.

The purpose of their mobility was to share the experience of international innovative teaching. Georgian Professors delivered the courses in E-learning methodology, technology and design, design of digital systems at the Department of Technology and Information Technology (Faculty of Education). They conducted the lectures for the undergraduate students.

During the mobility stay they met the representatives of the University administration and considered the ways for further development based on mutual cooperation